Structure of the Online Courses:

The Online Courses are structured into different content-related modules, with the objective to provide an in-depth analysis of the subject of the workshops, including cross-cutting issues.

Modules are composed by live sessions and self-paced sessions.

- Live sessions are pre-scheduled and usually last between 90 and 120 minutes. These are delivered via Zoom for Education (see above).
- Self-paced sessions are completed at participants' own pace and must be undertaken before the beginning of each following session. These usually consist in pre-recorded videos and/or selected reference materials, uploaded on the Online Learning Platform (see above).

Delivery methodology:

The Online Courses are delivered through a mix of theory and practice, aimed at facilitating the learning process and implementing the gained knowledge throughout the workshop.

- Participants will have access to video conferences, discussion forums, and audio-visual materials, and will be exposed to case studies, pooling and assignments, to which they will receive tailored and individual feedback.
- The audience will have the opportunity to exchange practices and experiences with international experts delivering the thematic sessions of the workshop, and peer colleagues from different professional and geographical backgrounds.

Language:

It is essential that participants have a good command of the working language of the Online Course, as they will have to consult working documents and follow lectures and debates. Simultaneous translation is not provided.

Applications of candidates who do not possess the required language skills for the workshop will not be considered, as this can have a detrimental impact on the learning experience of other participants.
