Special Projects Department

General Background

The International Institute of Humanitarian Law (IIHL - www.iihl.org) is an independent, non-profit, humanitarian organisation founded in 1970. Its headquarters are situated in Villa Ormond, Sanremo (Italy). The main purpose of the Institute is to promote international humanitarian law, human rights, refugee law, migration law and related issues by organizing specific training programmes (courses, workshops, etc.), international conferences, thematic seminars and round tables.

Thanks to its specific, well-tested experience, the Institute has earned an international reputation as a centre of excellence in the field of training, research, and the dissemination of all aspects of international humanitarian law. Considering the aims it pursues, the Institute works in close collaboration with the most important international organisations dedicated to the humanitarian cause, including the International Committee of the Red Cross (ICRC), the United Nations High Commissioner for Refugees (UNHCR), and the International Organization for Migration (IOM). It has operational relations with UNESCO, NATO, OIF (Organisation Internationale de la Francophonie), and the International Federation of Red Cross and Red Crescent Societies. It has consultative status with the United Nations (ECOSOC) and participatory status with the Council of Europe.

The Institute offers prospective interns the opportunity of spending a period of time dedicated to assisting in the preparation and implementation of its activities. Priority is given to undergraduate students interested in the fields of international humanitarian law, human rights, refugee law, migration law, international relations, peace education, citizenship education, and all related disciplines.

The minimum duration of an internship is of at least four months.

European funded projects

Since 2017, the Sanremo Institute has been actively involved in European-funded projects in the fields of citizenship education, peace education, cultural inclusion and hybridisation of migrant children in education and many other related fields.

The EU funded projects are part of the Special Projects Department of the Institute.

These projects are not only based on the development of innovative tools, practices and resources for the stakeholders of the educational world, but, even more importantly, they aim at producing a relevant impact on national and international public policies through direct involvement of policy-makers.

This additional field of activity has quickly enhanced the European scope of the Institute in the key areas of citizenship and peace education, consequently increasing the number of projects in which IHL is actively involved. The Institute is currently part of different EU-funded projects among which: Children Hybrid Integration: Learning Dialogue as a way of Upgrading Policies of Participation – CHILD-UP, whose general objective is identified in the analysis of the enhancement of migrant children's ability to participate in changing their social and cultural conditions of integration; Policy implementation support and teacher empowerment for CITIZENSHIP EDucation – CITIZED, with the main objectives of filling current gaps of citizenship education policies with co-created innovative instruments and approaches; Peace Games, which responds to the need of offering advice and orientation to the peace education community in the field of both online and offline games; MULTI-Stakeholder Labs for migrants and stakeholders - MUST-a-Lab that proposes a systemic and long-term involvement of migrants and asylum seekers in cities and communities' decision-making processes.

Within this commitment, the Institute is one of the founding institutions of the Education Inspiring Peace Laboratory (EIP Lab) in Sanremo (Italy), an international hub whose primary objective is to carry out research, training of teachers and scientific analysis, as well as to provide operational support to education and cultural policies at various institutional levels.
